All those who have engaged space in THE LEDGER's big Thanksgiving Edition are respectfully requested to hand in their "copy" as soon as possible. It requires time to "set up" big advertisements, and the more time the printers have the better work they can do.

Nimrod B. Allen, one of Owensboro's oldest citizens, died there after a long illness. He was born in Maysville, but lived in Owensboro since childhood. For a half century he had taken an important part in the upbuilding of that place, and for a great many years he held a position in the Custom-house, and had probably served longer in the Federal service than any other man in the state.

The case of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company against William W. Morris et al. was argued and submitted in the Federal Court at Louisville Saturday morning. The company claims that William W. Morris, while acting as its agent, became indebted to it in a sum exceeding $5,000, and asks that W. W. Morris, principal, and William C. Kennedy and George W. Morris, sureties, shall forfeit the amount of W. W. Morris's bond, which was $5,000. The case is of fourteen years standing.

THIS OLD COUNTRY.

Good times or bad times, we're with this country still—With her on the mountain top, or sliding down the hill! Don't care how corn's a-sellin'—if cotton's high or low, This old country, brethren, is the best one that we know!

Good times or bad times, we're with this country still—Every time we feel her shake, we have a friendly chill! Don't care how things is goin'—nor how the tempests blow, This here old country, brethren, is the best one that we know!

Good times or bad times, we're with this country still—With her when we sow the grain, an' when we go to mill! Don't care what's in the future—we'll whistle as we go, For this old country, brethren, is the best one that we know.

James McCormick of Carlisle has gotten a renewal of his pension.

Arrangements have been completed to carry out compulsory vaccination among the school children of Louisville.

The H. E. Pogue Distillery Company of this city has filed at Frankfort an amendment to its articles of incorporation.

Train No. 16, due here from Cincinnati at 10:10 a. m. Saturday, broke down some distance below the city, and was delayed some time.

Only a few more spaces left in THE LEDGER's big Thanksgiving Edition. Speak quick if you want representation. It will help your business.

Mrs. Westfall of Minnesota, who was on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Sam M. Gaines, in Washington City, was taken ill and died there a few days since.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cobb of Kentucky's Creek have a brandnew son and heir, born Saturday. Dr. Pangburn and Mr. Cobb are all right up to the present time.

Miss Julia Gentry, a very wealthy lady of Danville, and Mr. John Russell Shannon, a Texas land-owner living near Fort Worth, were married at Kansas City, Mo.

Stanford is excited over what is thought to be a paying find of gas. While boring for water a company struck a big vein at a depth of 270 feet. The gas blazes twenty feet high and roars like a tornado.

Mr. George Schwartz of this city will learn he is an applicant for the Superintendency of the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home at Louisville, to become vacant by the resignation of Colonel Campbell H. Johnson.

The Mason County Building and Saving Association, will this year declare a dividend of at least 64%, payable in cash. The Association will open a new series of stock on the 1st of January. Now is the time to make a good investment in a safe home institution.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad announces that on December 1st all employees who receive over $1,000 a year will suffer a reduction of 10%. That's the right end to begin at—with the big salaried fellows and not with the poor devils who work for a dollar or two a day.

Mrs. S. X. Hall, Harry Porter and Lizzie Mosby, a servant girl, were poisoned by eating pork at the home of Mr. C. A. Porter in Louisville. The victims were taken suddenly ill, but they are improving rapidly, and all will recover. Mrs. Hall is the wife of the Rev. S. X. Hall of the M. E. Church, South, and a daughter of the Rev. Jedediah Foster of this city.

A Flemingsburg special says the official count, secretly made by Democrats, gives Fountain, Democrat, for Sheriff, a majority of three over Collier, Republican. In doing this five straight Republican ballots were left out simply because they were marked sworn. Republicans claim that, if they get a square count, they have elected the whole county ticket. Attorneys were employed Saturday, and notices of contest were given.

Charles Boydson, a Portsmouth wife-beater, was sentenced to six months in the Cincinnati Workhouse and to pay $100 fine.

And now no less distinguished Jurist than Judge R. H. Thompson of Louisville has declared the Sunday anti-barbering law unconstitutional.

Harry Tonges, Superintendent of the Frankfort Furniture Company, is missing and it is said he left town under a cloud. He owes about $900.

Mr. H. W. Fuller, General Passenger Agent of the C. and O., who was recently injured in a train wreck, is able to be out and will resume his duties in a few days.

Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge will take the lecture platform. A contract has been drawn up between him and C. D. Hess, the well known manager, who is now managing the lecture tour of General Basil W. Duke.

Among those who sailed on the Fuerst Bismarck from New York Saturday was Whitelaw Reid, Republican Vice-Presidential candidate in 1892. Mr. Reid's leave taking was a particularly sad one, because of the fact that his physicians had assured him that he could not survive another New York winter, and that even the climate of the Nile can prolong his life only a few weeks or months at the most. Mrs. Reid accompanied her husband, but the children will remain at Cohir farm for the present.

Attorney General Hendrick has rendered a decision in regard to the salary of Judge Thompson of the Louisville City Court. The question was as to whether Judge Thompson should be allowed fees out of the State Treasury for sitting in examining trials at other Magistrates are. The Attorney General decides that he is entitled to these fees in addition to his salary of $3,500. As he is allowed $2 in each case his fees and salary will in the future aggregate $5,000, which is the Constitutional limit.

Mayor W. H. Cox, Councilman Isaac M. Lane, Commodore G. W. Geisel, Jig-gadlerbrindle W. L. Davidson, Colonel John T. Carnahan and Major John Davidson, the latter the Man of Function who caught the 'possum, returned Saturday from a quail campaign in the State of Lewis. They rendezvoused in the Preachers' Tent at Ruggles Campground, doing their own cooking and washing. With the expiration of the closed season they moved on the enemy's trail, and after two days' march and a spirited fusillade they killed upwards of fifty—rabbits, quail and hawks. The number of wounded is not given, but the "missing"—gracious! "the woods are full of 'em."

Building Association Receipts.

The receipts of the several Building Associations of this city Saturday night were as follows:

Mason County.....	$ 543 00
Limestone.....	446 85
People's.....	308 55
Total.....	$ 1,298 40

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

What the Property Committee Has to Say of the Buildings.

Below we give an extract from the report of the Property Committee made recently to the Board of Education:

Your Committee also viewed the various schoolhouse properties in the city, except that in the Sixth Ward. In regard to their condition we have to report that we found that of the High Schoolhouse to be good. As to the District houses, we found them all in need of repairs.

We directed such repairs made only as were absolutely necessary to make the houses comfortable for the coming winter and for the property's protection.

We are compelled to say that, in our opinion, not one of these houses, in its present condition, is fit for use as a schoolhouse.

The house of District No. 1 is, as a structure, in better condition than the others, yet it is much out of repair. It was built for a private dwelling, and is, therefore, unsuited to the uses of a schoolhouse, without alteration. The situation is bad; the grounds are almost wholly unavailable as playgrounds.

The houses of District Nos. 2 and 3 are mere shells and are a discredit to our city, which is progressive in other lines.

Therefore, we beg to suggest that the Board begin at once the agitation of some plan for the building of more convenient and modern houses for the accommodation of our school children, for the cause of education—public interest in which is fast increasing—and last, though not least, in behalf of the upbuilding and prosperity of our beloved city.

The plan for the accomplishment of the end in view, we have not the temerity to suggest to gentlemen possessing the financial and general business ability of those who compose this Board, and whom we are satisfied look upon this matter as we do, and whom also we are confident will succeed, should they once put their powers to the wheel.

HOOP! HOORAY!

Kentucky Has Partially Resumed Paying Her Delayed Debts.

A special from Frankfort announces that State Treasurer Hale has begun paying on some of the oldest warrants against the State Treasury after a total suspension of about four months.

The Treasurer was enabled to do this on account of largely increased receipts from Sheriff's collections of fall taxes, and announces that he will not only continue the partial payment of obligations during the month, but will be able to resume general payments on December 1st.

The receipts at the Treasurer's office have been unusually large for several days past, two checks received one day aggregating $125,000. One of these was turned in by Sheriff Bell of Jefferson county, and is for $75,000. The other is from Sheriff Kingsley of Kenton county, and calls for $50,000.

The second installment due to the school-teachers of the state fell due November 4th, but owing to a lack of funds their payment was indefinitely postponed.

The Treasurer expects to be able to meet this demand also in December. The installment in round numbers amounts to $400,000.

SOME CURIOS.

Will Cumber Name Republican Captures From Democracy.

Commercial Gazette.

The Republican party is accumulating a collection of curios that will be of great interest to the coming generations.

Let us look over a few of the things that are now in the Republican museum.

There is the old discarded banking system. These shipplasters actually passed as money before the organization of the Republican party. It may seem incredible, but it is a fact. What is still more wonderful, in the last National platform of the Democrats, they made a feeble effort to return to this system of finance. That platform has recently been captured and will find a place in this interesting collection of wonders.

But the thing that takes the most space in the museum and attracts the most attention is the institution of slavery. This was captured from the Democrats. The auction blocks, the rusted manacles, the bloodhounds, the fugitive slave laws—it is one of the finest specimens in the shop.

It will take a long time for the visitor who was born after the capture to study out and know what it all means.

The Democrats fought long and hard for it, but we are too many for them. We took it in.

And then alongside of this slavery specimen is that bent and battered, unsightly thing, wrapped in stars and bars. What is that? Oh, I see, it is the Southern Confederacy.

It was organized to make slavery perpetual on this American continent.

When the Government freed the slaves it was captured, and they are properly put side by side, for the coming generations to wonder at.

These rusty parchment hanging above these two specimens is worthy of notice. It contains the nullification resolutions of 1798. They can be found, also, in the platform made and constructed when James Buchanan was nominated by the Democrats in 1856. This platform is another of the specimens we have in the museum.

That parchment contains the justification, as the Democrats thought, for secession. It claims that the sovereignty is in the state and not in the general Government. That created the great civil war. It was captured and put in the shop at the time that Lee surrendered to General Grant at Appomattox.

The two volumes bound in calf are of more recent date, but a valuable acquisition to the museum.

The first volume contains a fiery denunciation of Speaker Reed by the Democrats in Congress, in which they called him a tyrant and Czar, and many other hard names, for counting a quorum.

The second volume contains the complete record of the next Congress, in which the Democrats adopted the same policy. This is a most interesting curio.

The pile of papers you might take for rubbish is the Wilson Bill, the Gorman amendments, and some letters that Cleveland wrote about them, in which the words "perfidy" and "dishonor" are used freely and frequently.

But they do not amount to much. The people captured them at the polls the other day and brought them, and we gave them a place in the museum.

The large space right behind the slavery and Southern Confederacy specimens is kept open for the Democratic party, which we will capture in 1896.

The collection is not considered complete until we have this ancient specimen. We are sure of it.

The Republicans will then exhibit the whole collection at the next World's Fair, and will take the premium as the greatest civilizing force in the world.

BOOMING!

SOME SEQUELS TO THE LATE REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

Returning Prosperity—Factories Starting Up—Work for American Workmen.

[Before the election THE LEDGER argued that Republican success meant a restoration of confidence, the opening of American factories and workshops, the return of business to its wonted channels, profitable and steady employment for American workmen, and an era of renewed prosperity all along the line. That the hopes held out by THE LEDGER were not false ones is being fully demonstrated. Below are a few evidences of the business revival that trends on the heel of the great Republican victory.—EDITOR.]

And Then Talk About the Good Times Brought About By the Election.

Cincinnati Post, Saturday.

J. F. Searle, representing a Worcester (Mass.) woven wire manufactory, is in the city, registered at the St. James.

Said he: "There has been a wonderful revival of business all over the country since the recent election, which settled for two years, at least, that there will be no more tinkering with the Tariff."

"As an illustration, I have sold $50,000 worth of goods in the past six days. In Chicago, on Thursday, I took orders for $23,000 worth of goods, and Friday, in Cincinnati, my sales amounted to $7,800. These figures are unprecedented in my line."

NEW YORK, Nov. 17th.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "In nearly all branches of business gradual improvement appears and the hopeful feeling observed last week has continued. Many establishments have resumed or added to their producing force, some also advancing wages, but it will take time to lift business out of the depression, and the progress made, if less than the sanguine expected, is at least encouraging."

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15th.—The Manufacturers' Record says: "A substantial forward movement all through the South is noticeable the past week. Improved bank clearings and improved railroad earnings are points reflecting the uniform and general character of the progress toward better times. The passage of the elections removes a feeling of uncertainty consequent to such periods and new enterprises are being launched with greater confidence. A feature of the week in the South is the activity in the building of electrical railways. Among the enterprises reported for the week the following are the more important: A $100,000 car coupler works in Texas. A $100,000 phosphate plant, a $60,000 telephone company, a big electric plant, flour mills, steam bakery, electric light plant, $100,000 manufacturing and a $2,000,000 expenditure for additional water supply in Maryland. Three cotton mills now organizing to cost $50,000, $100,000 and $200,000, and lumber mills in South Carolina. A $900,000 gold mining company, gold mines, lumber plants and copper extracting works in North Carolina. A big electric plant, $50,000 water-works, gold mines, lumber plants, iron mines in Georgia. A $50,000 fuel company, $300,000 quarry company, etc., plant and coal mines in Arkansas."

The American Farmer and Farm News takes the following cheerful view of the situation: "An era of hope seems to be dawning. On every hand we see indications that the utter stagnation that has prevailed among business enterprises is beginning to be broken and the long repose is giving place to an awakening that promises work for the idle and bread for the hungry. The smokestacks of factories are beginning to darken the air with smoke and the quietness of the shops is disturbed by the rattle of wheels and the whirl of belts. New conditions must be met, values rearranged and wage scales be modified, probably before the business of the Nation goes on again as of old, but anything is better than the discouraging quiescence of the months that have just dragged along. A great Nation like the United States cannot sit idly down forever. We have seen something of the effects of idleness and lack of work for workmen, in the march of the 'industrial armies,' and the gathering of organized bands to wander up and down the country claiming support at the hands of those who were often least able to supply it. Idleness is bad at any time, but we have had it demonstrated as never before that organized idleness is a menace to the country such as we hope will never again be brought about by economic conditions. The tree that stops growing begins to decay, and this is just as true of Nations. Stagnation in the sea would mean putrefaction in a very short time, and in Nations it means disintegration and destruction. We are glad to hail the coming of business activity, the forerunners of which are plainly visible."

Ashtand News: Freight business on the C. and O. main line still continues unusually good, and the prospects are steadily advancing. For the past several days as high as six sections of one numbered train have frequently been had.

MASSILLON, O., Nov. 15th.—A business letter received today by A. T. Skinner, a local wool buyer, contains some valuable Ohio news. The writer arranged the wool exhibit at the World's Fair, and is the senior partner in a great Boston house. Writing under date of November 11th he says: "The elections have increased confidence, and there is more wool buying. A good demand for No. 1 Ohio wools will follow, which will reach your section, we think, before January 1st."

DOUBLE NUMBER!

"The Ledger's" Extraordinary Thanksgiving Edition.

Thanksgiving!

Yes, let's all be thankful—The Republicans for success, The Democrats because it was no worse, The Populists because they are alive, The Prohibitionists because they're not in it.

And Merchants, Manufacturers and Professional People because there'll be no more "pulling" and "clawing" in Congress, and that everybody can now settle down to business.

The change has come. And with it there is bound to be renewed activity.

If you want a share of the general prosperity, invite THE LEDGER's free thousand readers to patronize you.

On Thanksgiving Day, November 29th, THE LEDGER will issue a special double number, and advertisers are cordially invited to use its columns to make known their wants.

We'll guarantee that you will realize handsomely on the investment.

Speak early for choice of position. First come—first served.

"His Nibs, the Baron," has been tickling the audience at the Westminster Theater more than pen can tell. It is one of the broadest of what are called farce-comedies, and is filled with taking specialties given by very clever artists, so that no one can avoid enjoying it. Manager Batcheller has succeeded in getting many good attractions this season, and has a large number engaged for future appearance, but it will be difficult for him to get a more satisfactory one than "His Nibs, the Baron."—Providence (R. I.) Critic.

This attraction will appear at Washington Opera-house Wednesday evening, November 21st.
